

Welcome to Vimia

Vimia offers consulting, programming and translation services for the Internet and IT domains.

Vimia is a small company with low overheads and can thus offer its services at competitive prices. The needs of the customer are always paramount. Rather than expanding itself, Vimia seeks co-operation and networking with other service providers offering complementary services.

Not what you might expect...

Vimia's basic approach to consultancy is two-fold: strong analysis of the business and technical environment of the customer's venture; and innovation and creativity in developing pragmatic solutions for the customer.

Online Service Delivery

Vimia's offering is centred around online service delivery: making your services available to all your customers on all your on-line channels in a way which optimally complements your traditional channels. Vimia can help you with:

- Internet consulting [1] and IT consulting [2];
- translation of technical documents [3], programs [4] and websites [5];
- implementation and realisation [6] of Internet and IT projects.

What's more...

On this website, you will find additional information about the following activities of Vimia:

- research and development [7];
- informal commentary on current topics in the Internet and IT in the blog [8] .
